Athletes representing 16 schools and academies of the Chicago district will pry open the Second Regiment's annual track and field meet at the Madison street armory tonight. The battle for supremacy among the prep stars will account for the greater part of tonight's program, but several events for the better known stars are also down for decision.

The real doings will not take place until tomorrow night, however, when the remainder of the 425 athletes—the largest entry of any meet ever held in Chicago—will get into action. Listed in this number are such stars of national fame as Ted Meredith, Howard Drew, Avery Brundage, Andy Ward, Jole Ray, Sol Butler, Roy Morse, Joy Loomis and a host of others.

A few of the above-named stars will be on hand tonight for trial heats in the 440-yard open handicap, in which Ted Meredith, Binga Desmond, Leroy Campbell and Ivan Meyers will be favorites for first honors.
